

Reflection on Completion and Handover Ceremony of Mingde Jundi Teacher Dormitory

30th September – 2nd October 2017

BA(Conservation) IV

I am very fortunate to have joined the ceremony in which I can see how much Mingde project have achieved throughout the years. Congratulations to the volunteers, donors and students who have helped to make this happen. Although I am not very involved in this project before, I am very passionate to join the upcoming activities related to the project because I think the village is worth-serving. They are one of the ethnic minorities in China and it is a contentious place that reflects multiple problems in regards to the development of China. “Left-Behind-Children” has become the big problems in villages in the mountains. Parents are often forced to work outside for a living and the children, not getting much attention and guidance from their parents, go bad easily and are often deprived of formal education. This place is worth attention and it can be a starting point for us to reconsider the Three Rural Issues and economic development in China.
