

Reflection of working trip to Daping

(9-12 Jan 2017)

It is a precious opportunity for me to participate twice in the working trip to Dai Ping and for me, I think these two trips serves as an invaluable chance for me to learn from professors and do practical works on site in China. The trips to GuangXi are remarkable and unique, each trip serves as an eye-opener for me as well as to learn both technical and soft skills throughout the trips. And I would also like to express my gratitude to Dr Wong for giving us kind guidance and and clear direction to work effectively.

First of all, I think one of the most important highlight of the trip was to re-visit the teacher dormitory of Daping Primary School. During the last trip, we had continuous discussions and interactions with engineer Luk during the trip and learn a lot about the construction details and techniques used during construction. After 2 months' time, the building has "grown" from ground floor to second floor. Although we didn't participate in the construction work or monitoring process on site but I still think this is satisfying and rewarding after our involvement in this project.
